Tim Steudel (*1972) has studied law in Bremen. Since 2005 he works as a mediator for criminal law in the association Täter-Opfer-Ausgleich (victim-offender-mediation) Bremen e.V. Responsible for three areas with high criminal activity amount, he has practised as a very experienced mediator about 100 cases from different criminal areas each year. The main focus by the treatment of the cases lies with offences of light and middle violence (physical injury, robbery) and property offences, but also heavy acts of violence (tried manslaughter) are worked on.

Besides his practical work as a mediator he regularly instructs the trainees of the association in further training courses how an actual balance conversation is carried on.

Beyond that he is one of the authors of the land report to the VOM in Germany:

Hartmann/Steudel/Winter (be printing). Land report to the VOM in Germany. (The report will be published within the scope of the project AGIS "Multidimensional Restorative Justice for Everyone" 2006 / AGIS / 171 on the Internet in 2009.)

Since 2008 he is also a university teacher for criminal law at the University of Applied Sciences in Public Administration (Hochschule für Öffentliche Verwaltung in Bremen) and he is a member of the criminal-political working group KRIPAK, which is engaged in topical criminal and criminal-political subjects.
